Sports From Abroad!

Football— (The United States of America) Football is centered around the college tradition of homecoming, when students and alumni get together to watch the game that originated from rugby.

Rugby — (France) Rugby is France's version of American Football. The French gather in bars or their homes to hangout with friends and enjoy a good, competitive, game.

Cricket — (England) The object of the bowler is to throw a ball and have it bounce once and knock over a wicket. The batter defends the wicket by batting the ball away. Once the batter hits the ball, he must run towards the other teams wicket and back to score a point.

Hurling — (Ireland) Mainly played in Ireland, hurling is similar to lacrosse. It is played on a soccer-type field with flattish bats and a small ball. They are able to use the bat to hold and throw the ball at the opponents goal.

Hockey — (Canada) It is common to see kids in Canada skating around ponds and rinks playing hockey. They enjoy the fast pace of the skaters and the puck. Bobby Hall hit a puck that was clocked at 118.3 mph, which is the fastest recorded speed.

Dragon boat races — (China) Dragon boat races originated in China over 2,000 years ago and are held today during the Duanwu Festival or Duen Ng observance. The boats are powered by team paddling.

Jai alai — (Mexico) Similar to racquetball, jai alai is a high speed game with the ball's speeds reaching 204 mph. They play the ball of three walls including the front, back, and left.

Bocce — (Italy) Two people or two teams of two people can compete during Bocce. The first team throws a smaller ball, the jack, and then throws their first ball. The other team then tries to aim their ball closer to the jack. The team with the farthest ball continues to throw until theirs is closer or they use all 4 balls. The team with the closet ball gains a point for every ball that beats the other teams.
